

Part Two: Matching. Worth one point each. (25 points)

Match the following terms with the definitions below:

verbal irony	atmosphere	style	moral total omniscience	unreliable narrator	tone	round character diction	epiphany	protagonist	climax dynamic character	in medias res	exposition	foreshadowing flashback	objective narrator	flat character	cosmic irony theme	motivation	antagonist
parable		fable

1. A character that is defined by only one outstanding trait or feature
2. A lesson that can be extracted from a story
3. The force acting in opposition to the main character
4. Narrator has knowledge of the minds of all the characters
5. A writer's particular ways of managing words that we come to recognize as customary
6. Indication of events to come
7. The general idea or insight the entire story reveals
8. Narrator does not enter the mind of any character but describes events from the outside
9. Whenever words say one thing but mean something else, usually the opposite 10. The opening portion of a narrative where the scene is set and the main characters are introduced
11. A brief narrative, with a plausible plot and human characters, that teaches a moral
12. Choice of words
13. A scene relived in a character's memory
14. When a story begins in the midst of things
15. Sufficient reason for characters to behave as they do
16. A character portrayed in great depth and generous detail
17. A character that changes during the course of a story
18. A brief, often humorous narrative, with animal characters, that illustrates a moral
19. A moment of profound insight or revelation by which a character's life is greatly altered
20. The main character
21. Whatever makes the writer's attitude clear to us
22. The dominant mood or feeling that pervades all parts of a literary work
23. Developments that reveal a terrible distance between what people deserve and what they get, between what is and what ought to be
24. The moment of greatest tension at which the outcome is to be decided
25. Point of view is that of a person who is deceptive, deluded, or deranged