#49=Yes, both course completion rates and persistence rates.

#50.= (74.03% The entire student population in the fall 2012 term); (74.51% The entire student population in the fall 2013 term); (82.73% Students with military ties in the fall 2012 term); (65.48% Students with military ties in the fall 2013 term).

#51.= (66% The entire student population fall 2011 to spring 2012); (45% The entire student population fall 2011 to fall 2012); (68% The entire student population fall 2012 to spring 2013); (50% The entire student population fall 2012 to fall 2013); (99% Students with military ties fall 2011 to spring 2012); (71% Students with military ties fall 2011 to fall 2012); (70% Students with military ties fall 2012 to spring 2013); (54% Students with military ties fall 2012 to fall 2013).

#52.=We track retention rates, but not graduation rates, for students with military ties.

#53.=(71% Military student retention rate 2012 retention rate); (54% Military student retention rate 2013 retention rate).

#54. (I am not able to report this at this time until I work with Patrick to set up cohorts in Banner. Hopefully next year we can pull this data).

#55. (none)

#56. (46% Fewer than 20 students in the fall 2012 term); (52% Fewer than 20 students in the fall 2013 term); (0% 50 students or more in both the fall 2012 and fall 2013 terms).

Jayne,

I am still working on the numbers. I will send them to you either tonight or tomorrow morning. I am almost done but not quite yet.
