Subject: Nuventive and Ellucian partner for institutional performance

Nuventive and Ellucian have partnered to develop a new institutional performance solution, planned for availability later this year. We are developing this solution to support a collaborative culture of evidence-based performance throughout an institution or system of institutions.

The new solution will leverage, automate, and extend the companies' current offerings and help customers make the most of their existing investments. It will work both with the Banner® by Ellucian and Colleague® by Ellucian administrative systems, bringing a wide range of campus data together with collaborative planning, assessment and documentation technologies to help you more effectively use information to make informed decisions and achieve institutional goals.
